

May you give your hope room to breathe and expand.

May your anticipated dreams find a voice and a home in your life.

May hope move freely through your heart, gifting your spirit with enthusiasm and joy.

May you walk through spring storms with a strong sense of purpose, undaunted by fear.

May you never lose confidence in your ability to grow.

May your hope stream outward to the world, dancing in the far realms like a feather floating in an April breeze, bringing joy to all who need it.

Amen.

Joyce Rupp, The Heart's Journey Through the Seasons